ADULT EDUCATION IS A TREMENDOUS SUCCESS AT START

327 Register on Opening Night. More Expected Tonight.

The success of the opening night of the community classes in adult education being held in the High School Monday and Tuesday evenings, was far greater than expectation. A total of three hundred and twenty-seven, representing all ages and a fine cross section of the town, registered Monday night, which was the first session. Since then the offices of the high school and Robbins Library have been flooded with calls from those intending to register tonight.

The experiment, which was sponsored by the education committee of the Arlington Woman's Club, Mrs. George I. Savage, chairman, proves that many Arlington people appreciate the opportunity to broaden themselves under excellent instructors.

Miriam Hendrick Cahalin will take the place of Miss Betty Pierce, who has accepted a position to teach in a private school and will instruct in "Voice and Diction."

This evening at 8:30 Miss Clough who is teaching the classes in French, will stay and meet those interested in forming a class in beginner's French. If there is enough demand for such a class Miss Clough will conduct it.

Dr. Harold E. Hodgdon, Arlington optometrist who already enjoys a fine practice at 485 Massachusetts avenue, has installed the latest thing in grinding equipment for the shaping of lenses. He is thus prepared to give even better service to his long list of old customers and paves the way for the addition of new patronage.

Selectmen Order Public Hearing On No-Coasting Plea

The Board of Selectmen received a petition at the meeting Monday night requesting that coasting be not allowed on Washington street (Crescent Hill) this year. The document was signed by one hundred voters, some of whom live on the street in question.

Instead of taking immediate action the board has called a public hearing on the matter and has set the date, January 13, in the Town Hall at eight o'clock.

When questioned concerning Washington street, Chief Bullock of the police department said that in his opinion Washington street was the only one in the Crescent Hill section suitable for coasting. He explained that last year the street was sand for half of its width for the use of automobiles, while the other half was reserved for children.

John Winner May Run for Town Clerk

If the efforts of a group of Arlington citizens are successful, John K. Winner may be a "dark horse" candidate for the office of town clerk. Action was initiated in a very quiet way by friends in East Arlington, but cooperation has been promised from other citizens at the Center, and in the Heights section. It is expected that this group will urge consideration of Mr. Winner's qualifications upon the Citizens' Committee.

Harold A. Cahalin Appointed to Arl. School Committee

Harold A. Cahalin of 15 Johnson road, the newest member of the School Committee, attended his first meeting Tuesday night. Mr. Cahalin was elected a member of that body in a joint meeting of the School Committee and the Selectmen Monday night and was sworn in by the Assistant Town Clerk, Miss Edith Hearsey, the following morning.

On October 1 of last year Dr. Clair E. Turner resigned from the School Committee because of press of other business and his place at the board has been vacant ever since. There have been attempts to fill the vacancy but the School Committee was deadlocked four to four on the choice of candidates. At that time the Selectmen considered the appointment primarily a School Committee matter and refrained from breaking the deadlock, with the idea of giving the school board time to straighten out its own disagreement.

But the deadlock persisted, and Monday night two members of the Board of Selectmen, Ernest W. Davis and Harold M. Esterbrook (Chairman) were absent because of illness) threw their weight in favor of Mr. Cahalin.

Mr. Cahalin was born in Arlington, and has lived here all his life, having received his elementary education in Arlington schools. He is connected with the First National Bank of Boston which employs him as an advisor to municipalities which have involved themselves in financial difficulties. He is a graduate of Suffolk Law School, where he studied in order to be of greater value to his bank. It is believed that the School Committee in particular and the town in general will greatly benefit from the use of his special knowledge and talents.

Drunken Driver Is Arrested After Crash

Early last Sunday morning an automobile was wrecked against the safety island on Massachusetts avenue at Lake street. When the police arrived no one was in the machine, but after a search they found two men down the avenue near Melrose street. One, Frank M. Purdy of Brighton, was said to be the driver of the machine and the other was Edgar S. Winchester of Allston, who had been a passenger. Purdy was arrested for drunkenness.

It was later learned that two women had been injured and had been taken to Symmes Arlington Hospital by a passing motorist. Mrs. Esther Purdy, the wife of the operator, was badly cut about the face, but Miss Julia Casey of Brookline was less seriously hurt.

The Board of Park Commissioners, John B. Byrne, Chairman, Nils G. Anderson, and Daniel M. Hooley, as their last official act during their last executive session for the year 1935, held Monday evening, December 30th, voted unanimously to encourage and promote the National Youth Administration in Arlington.

The Board states that the National Youth Administration will entail no expense whatever to the taxpayers of Arlington, and will be entirely financed by the Federal Government.

The Board has communicated with the regional administrator, ad-

IS THROWN FIFTY FEET WHEN HIT BY MILK TRUCK

Mrs. Frank Cook Dies at Symmes Following the Accident. Funeral on Tuesday.

Sunday morning brought tragedy to the Cook family of 5 Bartlett avenue. At the corner of Massachusetts and Bartlett avenues Mrs. Frank A. Cook, Sr., 71, was waiting for a street car to take her to six o'clock mass at St. Agnes Church. As the car approached in the early morning darkness she stepped into the street and was struck by a milk truck, which was, apparently, trying to pass the street car before it stopped.

Mrs. Cook was hit hard and thrown nearly fifty feet. She was rushed to Symmes Arlington Hospital in the police ambulance but her numerous injuries proved fatal and she died the following morning at half past two.

The driver of the truck was George B. Smith of Littleton and was placed under arrest for manslaughter and driving so as to endanger. The truck was owned by Whitcomb Farms, Inc., of Littleton.

Funeral services were held from her late residence Tuesday morning and solemn high mass was celebrated at St. Agnes Church. Burial was in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

The deceased, Mrs. Louisa R. Cook, was born in Roxbury to Robert and Mary (Clough) Roe. She was married there fifty-five years ago but had lived in Arlington for the past twenty years. Besides her husband she is survived by four sons, Frank A., Jr., of Lexington, Robert J., of Newark, N. J., John P., of Arlington, and William P. Cook of Quincy.

Arlington Boy Achieves A Draw Against Champ

A thirteen-year-old Arlington schoolboy, Nicholas Anifantis, well-known proprietor of a lunch room at Arlington Heights, astounded the checkers world last week by playing the world champion, Nathan Rubin of Detroit, to a standstill in the annual checkers meet at Wells Memorial, Boston. Rubin was playing fifty boards.

Complete Celebration Of 50th Anniversary

Last Friday evening the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Park Avenue Congregational Church continued with a banquet held in the parish house with J. Howard Hayes, general chairman of the anniversary committee, presiding.

The banquet was served at half past six and between courses community singing was led by J. Henry Skillings. Rev. Laurence L. Barber, pastor of the Orthodox Congregational Church, gave a lecture entitled, "Companions on the Trail." Herbert A. Snow, also a member of the general committee, gave a historical sketch, "From the Past to the Present."

Other speakers included Rev. Ralph M. Timberlake, president of the Massachusetts conference, and Rev. Jay T. Stocking, moderator of the national council of Congregational and Christian churches. The addresses were punctuated with appropriate music.

Sunday morning there was another special anniversary service and in the afternoon there was a candle light communion of meditation and consecration.

LAST WEEK'S ITALIAN LETTER GETS POWERFUL RESPONSE

Paul Riccardi Answers Attack on Neutrality League and Michael Freda. Suggests Italian-Americans Mind Their Own Business.

January 7, 1936

The Editor of the Arlington Advocate, Arlington, Mass.

Dear Sir:

The letter written by a Joseph Grano and published in the Advocate on January 2 caused a great deal of resentment in the hearts of hundreds and hundreds of people. Most of Mr. Grano's statements were unfounded. He merely attacked bitterly, and he is one out of a thousand who has the feeling he expressed.

Among those who were hurt by this letter were: Messrs. Guarente, LoPresti, Atty. Michael Fredo, the Italian-American Citizen Club of Arlington, the vast Order of Sons of Italy, and a host of others.

I was called upon to answer Mr. Grano's letter, frankly and truthfully. We who have been hurt will appreciate it beyond expression if you publish the attached letter in the January 9 issue of The Advocate.

PAUL P. RICCARDI.

January 6, 1936

Dear Mr. Grano:

Your offensive and disgusting letter to the editor of the Arlington Advocate, on January 2, was nothing but sophistry ornamented with a few pretty phrases.

I am sorry to have to assert that you understand little about the Neutrality League and less about Atty. Michael Fredo. Perhaps if I treat the subject elementarily, you

Narrowly Escape Monoxide Death

Spencer Cowbourne of 145 Park avenue extension, and his baby daughter, 17 months old, both narrowly escaped death last Friday night and were literally dragged back to the land of the living by effort of police and firemen. They were nearly asphyxiated and were unconscious when found.

Someone in the neighborhood noticed that something was wrong in the Cowbourne home and notified the police and fire departments who immediately responded, the firemen with their special service truck which is equipped with an inhalator.

When the police gained entrance they found Mr. Cowbourne unconscious beside a gasoline powered wall paper stripping machine. He had been operating the device with the windows closed and had been overcome by monoxide. Windows were thrown open and officers went to work on the victim, using the prone-pressure method. After ten or fifteen minutes he revived.

The child was in a high chair in the room and was also unconscious. The firemen revived her by use of the inhalator.

The comparative figures are as follows:

Two Local Police Officers Volunteer for Transfusion

Two police officers, Sergeant Harold F. Pick and Inspector William Scanlan volunteered to give blood this week for the benefit of Fred Bennett of Russell street, who is dangerously ill at the Massachusetts General Hospital. The officers reported at the hospital and each gave a tube of blood for a test, but neither was called upon for the actual transfusion. The blood of Harry Bennett, the brother of the stricken man, was found to be better suited.

PUBLIC WILL SOON BE BID TO NEW LEGION QUARTERS

Old G. A. R. Hall is Now Completely Renovated. Men Offer Blood for Comrade.

The old Grand Army Hall has now been completely renovated and its new comers, Arlington Post, American Legion, will be shortly ready to move in. As soon as a new deed of trust has been arranged, the public will be invited to inspect the new home of Post 39.

The acquisition of new quarters has evidently stirred up renewed interest among the veterans of Arlington, for applications for membership are being received in unprecedented numbers.

On Sunday, Commander Fred Reynolds received a request to secure volunteers who would be willing to submit to a blood transfusion for the benefit of Harry Bennett, who is dangerously ill at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Several members of the Post responded but it was decided to enlist the help of Chief Archie F. Bullock of the Police Department, as his men are graded according to blood type and two men, Sergeant Harold F. Pick and William Scanlan, both members of the post, were selected.

He was found there by Officer Roche, who claimed that he was in a drunken condition.

MISS AVERY DELIVERS FOURTH TALK OF SERIES

In her fourth talk on World Affairs Wednesday, January 8, Miss Eunice Avery gave an appraisal of the past year. Taking the world as a whole, she said that there has been an improvement in economic conditions, an increase in international ethics and in social responsibility. A second world war has not occurred and the depression is not worse than in January, 1935. The three spots where war may still be started are Japan, Germany and Italy, but we must remember that "it takes twenty years to get a war."

The three greatest political situations were: China going off silver, George II recalled to the throne of Greece, the naval conference in London.

Great advance in transportation has been made and a big problem of life is to adjust ourselves to mechanics. Democracy has a wonderful power of survival and is stronger today than a year ago. The A.A.A. decision leaves a problem still to be solved. But constitutionalism is the most important thing to save, and democracy must have the vision to get justice.

ENDORSE YOUTH ADMINISTRATION

vising him of their vote and desired cooperation in the matter.

The purpose of the National Youth Administration is essentially to provide and promote recreational activities in the form of competitive athletics such as baseball, basketball, ice hockey, swimming and all aquatic sports, track events and calisthenics, for the young men of Arlington between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five.

Analogous to the recreational features of the National Youth Administration is the vocational guidance section, which will provide adequate training and encouragement toward the advancement of the natural aptitude of the young men of Arlington between the ages of eighteen to twenty-five, in ultimately selecting their vocation in life.

Along with the recreational features and the Vocational Guidance section is the educational program, consisting of formal and informal discussions on all matters of current interest, the establishment of an "Open Forum", and a complete course of illustrated lectures.

The establishment of the National Youth Administration in Arlington, as sponsored by the Park Commissioners, will not only provide active athletic competition, recreational entertainment, broad educational facilities, and vocational guidance for the young men of Arlington, but will also afford employment for the qualified young men of Arlington who have been unable to secure permanent employment as instructors and teachers.

The Park Commissioners thoroughly believe that the National Youth Administration will adequately provide for a dismal condition that has been Arlington's for some time, and wholeheartedly endorse the movement, with the hope that in the near future means may be devised whereby the young girls of Arlington may be allowed the same privileges and opportunities that will be afforded the young men of Arlington as provided by the National Youth Administration, which the Park Commissioners believe will eventually cease to be purely an emergency measure and will ultimately become a permanent feature of American life.

TAXPAYERS ASS'N TO INVITE PUBLIC TO MEMBERSHIP

Last Monday eighteen directors met at the headquarters of the Arlington Taxpayers Association and acted upon the various committee reports.

An invitation to join this active organization will be sent out about January 16th to every taxpayer in the town. While the membership has been increasing rapidly, the directors feel that every taxpayer or representative should and would belong if given a tangible opportunity. This is the reason for the letter in which an application will be enclosed. The purposes of the association are non-partisan, but are of vital importance to everyone. According to the executive secretary, Russell T. Hamlet, local problems are fast reaching a point where certain definite things should be done. State tax problems must be co-operated upon by all Associations in the Commonwealth, and National tax relief work should be supported. Strength in numbers counts. In the opinion of many, a membership in the Arlington Taxpayers Association is a real tangible form of Tax Insurance.

Girl Scout Notes

Thirty-three girls and five leaders enjoyed the first Winter Camping trip to Cedar Hill last week. The program was varied, and included fire-building, outdoor cooking, skating, singing and folk dancing. Miss Beryl Sullivan, Captain of the Hardy School troop, instructed the girls in the cooking, assisted by Miss Mary MacGillivray, local Golden Eaglet, Dorothy James and Frances Griffin. Miss Blanche C. McGowan, local director, had charge of the program.

An excellent week-end is planned for anyone interested in the Girl Scout Nature and Handicraft programs, at Cedar Hill, from 4 p. m. Friday, January 24 to 4 p. m. Saturday, January 25. The instructors will be Miss Marie Gaudette, National Nature Consultant, and Mrs. Chester Marsh, National Director of Arts and Crafts.

Arlington's Girl Scout Drum and Bugle Corps is progressing very well. More are invited to join on Thursdays at 4 p. m. in the Assembly Hall of the Junior High Center. Chester Whiting is the drumming instructor, and Frank Whiting, the bugling instructor.

Miss Blanche C. McGowan will attend the regional conference for local directors at Cedar Hill, Monday, January 13, 1936.

Troops 6 and 13 are planning to go to the Cambridge swimming pool this Thursday evening for a swim as a change from their regular troop meetings. They will be in charge of Miss Martha Barr, Miss Beryl Sullivan, Miss Mary Leveroni and Miss Blanche C. McGowan.

Troop 1

December 23, troop one had a Christmas party at 2:30 p. m. A play was given by one of the scouts under the direction of Mrs. Young. We sang Christmas carols and were given presents from Santa Clause. After that refreshments were served.

January 6, we worked very hard helping others to pass tests. Several girls passed bed-making, and still more, compass. All the girls in the laundress class passed the test.

—Betty Mahoney.

Troop 3

We had a Christmas party at our last meeting. We played a game called fortunes, and another called imitation. There were refreshments of ice cream and cookies. We went caroling Saturday evening before Christmas.

—Jeanne Garcelon.

Troop 6

At this meeting the cooks part of the Homemaker's Award of the Daughters of the American Revolution was completed. The girls who were unable to attend the cook-out luncheon at Shirley Bond's during vacation to take the test, took the test at this meeting.

—Laura Jean Rood.

Troop 7

Last troop meeting we girls of Troop 7 had a very pleasant surprise when Miss McGowan visited our troop and invested seven new girls as tenderfoot scouts, and one, Winifred Axelby, as a second class. They were Patricia Harvey, Constance Higgins, Patricia Gately, Gertrude Gott, Catherine Marshall, Ruth Perice. Miss McGowan taught us a dance, and we played games. Announcements were made about the Cedar Hill Winter camping, and the basket we gave to a poor family. Everybody in our troop contributed groceries, and a few toys were also brought in. At the end of the meeting, cake, cookies, candy, and ice cream were served by the troop committee.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

How the Law of God Works in Human Affairs

Mrs. Louise Knight Wheatley Cook, C. S. B. of Kansas City, Missouri, Explains This Law.

Member of the Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

An audience that completely filled Robbins Memorial Town Hall Sunday afternoon, and occupied standing room wherever permitted and the platform back of the speaker, greeted Mrs. Louise Knight Wheatley Cook, of Kansas City, Missouri, to hear her lecture on "Christian Science: The Law of God Applied to Human Affairs." The hall was filled within a few minutes after the doors were opened.

The lecturer was introduced by Mr. Torrance Parker of Belmont, a member of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Cambridge, whose remarks are given below:

All of us who have accepted Christian Science and are trying to live according to its teachings have received therefrom specific blessings such as healings of disease, the elimination of bad habits, demonstrations of supply and congenial employment and a greater measure of mental peace.

As we have learned about God and the omnipotence and omniscience of divine Love through the study of the Bible as explained and illuminated by our textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, we have found that we have had far more harmony in our daily lives. I can testify to this from my own experience. Naturally we are grateful; naturally we wish to express our gratitude; and also, naturally, we wish to bring this source of blessing to the attention of our friends and neighbors that they also may be blessed. One of the ways in which we can do this which has been provided by the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, Mrs. Eddy, is for the members of branch churches to give free lectures on Christian Science to which our friends and neighbors are invited. These lectures are by members of a Board of Lectureship fully competent to discuss this subject and who are appointed by the Board of Directors of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. Now, on behalf of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Cambridge, which is a branch of The Mother Church, I have the pleasure of welcoming you to one of these lectures, and of presenting to you the lecturer who will speak on the subject of Christian Science: The Law of God Applied to Human Affairs, Mrs. Louise Knight Wheatley Cook of Kansas City, Missouri.

Mrs. Cook Spoke as Follows

Many centuries ago, a man stood in the midst of Mars' Hill and gave to the people of his time a reason for the hope that was in him. From Paul's day to this, it has always been accounted a joyous privilege to speak in behalf of what one knows to be true. Faith, or blind belief, may be shaken; but when one has actually felt the healing and transforming touch of Christian Science, he no longer says merely, "I believe." He says, "I know." I know that my redeemer liveth, because that saving and redeeming power has already been made manifest in his own individual experience.

There are doubtless many here tonight who could tell of the blessings which have come into their lives through Christian Science. I am glad that they are here. But I am equally glad to feel that there are some others also who may, as yet, know very little about it. In fact, I hope there are some who are attending a Christian Science lecture for the first time. If there be but one such present, to that one I speak, well knowing that this brief hour may mean to him if his thought be open and receptive to the truth of Christian Science.

In these strange, difficult days of the world's unrest, it is not entirely worth while to know of a system of thinking which is not only a religion, but an exact science, capable of demonstration? Christian Science challenges fear, failure, doubt, distress of any kind by affording a practical and workable understanding of the changeless law of God. Let us have done with negative thinking. The world for too long has been looking at the wrong side of the ledger. For the may hold a penny so close to his eyes that he can see nothing beyond it. And there is so much "beyond" of beauty and happiness and success! There is a way out of every human difficulty, no matter how hopeless it may appear to be, a right way, a quiet way, a way which will bless all concerned, the sort of way that the prophet once wrote, "For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace."

In quoting from Isaiah I am reminded to say what doubtless most of you already know, that Christian Science derives its sanction from the Bible. Our textbook is named, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and it was written by Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, and its only leader. One of the religious tenets of Christian Science, which reads as follows, in Science and Health (p. 497): "As adherents of Truth, we take the inspired Word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to eternal life." That ought to silence the thought that Christian Scientists do not read the Bible, as has been said. On the contrary, they read and study it daily. To them it is still the Book of books, and no book can ever supersede it.

Mrs. Eddy's Wonderful Healing

It was when studying this book that Mrs. Eddy's own healing came about. After reading some passages from Matthew's Gospel, and applying them to her own case, she was able to heal herself of an injury caused by an accident, pronounced fatal by the physicians. She literally "rose and walked," to the astonishment of all beholders. But this was not enough. She must help other sufferers also to find their freedom. So she spent three years in studying the Bible and searching for the solution of this problem of Mind-healing, proving it over and over again, until at last she was ready to embody the results of her investigations in the book just mentioned.

And then—I often think of those early days, when there was just one Christian Scientist on earth, when Mrs. Eddy stood alone with God, triumphant over "the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune," untouched by the gibes and jeers of those who did not understand. Her first happy confidence that the world would rejoice to know of her discovery, and hasten to accept it, was found to be misplaced. The churches coldly closed their doors upon it—and her. The press laughed at it. Material medica fought it. Some of her early followers were even fined and imprisoned, and her own life was threatened. But, undaunted, she pressed on, animated by one supreme, unswerving purpose, to restore to Christianity its lost element of healing.

We love Mrs. Eddy, but we do not worship her. And why should we not love her? Have you ever seen her birthplace, or pictures of it? It is just a typical New England farmhouse of the better sort, quite away from the beaten road, with only grass-grown wagon tracks leading past the door. Not many travelers it would seem, were wont to pass that way. Yet in the interval between that time and this, millions of feet, figuratively speaking, tired, weary feet, have worn a pathway to her door. Today the church she founded, The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, has an edifice capable of seating five thousand persons, while its many branches, of which this is one, extend not only throughout this country, but to foreign lands as well. When something of this sort happens, when from so humble and unostentatious a beginning a Cause steadily grows for seventy years, and can continue to grow, in the face of all opposition, it is time for every intelligent person to ask himself, Why? There must be a reason.

The Lost Element of Healing Restored

This book which I hold in my hand is the reason, Jesus said, "My words shall not pass away," and they have not. How well his early followers understood them is proved by the fact that for three hundred years after he left the earth, they healed the sick and raised the dead. The secular historian, Josephus, mentions this as a fact, and it was evidently regarded as a perfectly natural and inevitable part of their religion. After a while, however, various disintegrating elements crept in, as it grew and became "popular," until finally the primitive purity of those early teachings was lost. Gradually the healing element fell into disuse. Then came that period in the world's history rightly called the Dark Ages, and in these centuries of dense materiality the pure words of Jesus, the Christ, were largely forgotten. It would almost seem that they were gone forever; but there they lay, unseen, yet still vibrant and untouched, just waiting until human hearts should once more be ready to receive them. And then—a woman came, and they are now in such form that they can never again be lost.

Some very good and conscientious persons, however, may hesitate to read this book, Science and Health, because they have been told that it denies the divinity of Christ. That is not true. We do not deny the divinity of the Christ, and we love and revere Jesus even more than do some others, for we believe in keeping all of his commands, and not just a part. When he told those who believed on him to "preach the gospel" and "heal the sick," we believe that he meant just what he said. The churches preach the gospel, yes. But when asked why they do not heal the sick the reply often is, because they feel that this command was intended only for his immediate disciples, and for the age in which he lived. If so, why did he say, "These signs shall follow them that believe; . . . they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover?" "Them" that believe. He did not say "you" who believe. He knew that anyone, at any time, in any age, who really understood his sayings could make them provable and practical, just as he did. God would not be God, were this otherwise. God would not be Love, the faithful, tender, and true, were He to make relief from pain and misery possible only to a few favored ones, two thousand years ago, and then—never again. That would impugn our sense of even human justice. Man is made free today, as in Jesus' time, from any erroneous condition which may present itself—whether it be the healing of a sick body, a sick mind, a sick business, or a sick, homesick, heart-sick human being.

All the works of our Master were founded upon a spiritual law which is as applicable now as it was then, for real law, God's law, does not change with the passing of the centuries. Let us suppose that I am holding something in my hand—let us say, a pencil. If I drop this pencil it will go down. No one expects to see it go up. That is because we all believe in something we call "gravity." Although the views of "physical scientists" regarding this have undergone some changes of late, it existed as a so-called law in Jesus' time, and in the time of Moses, in fact, since the beginning of time, although not so generally understood. But the only law which Jesus acknowledged was true spiritual law, God's law. This real law was the basis of his many mighty works which he confidently promised would be repeated and even greater works than his, when this changeless law of God should become more universally accepted, and utilized.

The Law of God Always Works

"God is no respecter of persons" and neither is the law of gravitation. If I drop this pencil, it immediately goes down. If anyone drops a pencil, it immediately goes down. And may I add, it requires no assistance from us! One does not have to push the pencil. He has only to release it. That is a point most important to remember, for the trouble with most of us is that we will not seem to "let go" of those false beliefs and theories which are so directly responsible for our difficulties. There is a law of God just as ready to operate, and just as instantly available as is the so-called law of gravitation, but if we continue to cling to our troubles, still holding them fast in clenched, frightened fingers, how can we expect this law of God to operate in our behalf?

Perhaps we have held these troubles for so long now that we hardly know how to let them go. They have become so large "a part of ourselves," as the saying is, that everyone who sees us, immediately sees these troubles also, firmly attached to us, and that does not help us to shake them off! So we keep on holding them, looking at them, talking about them, thinking about them, dreaming about them, worrying about them, turning them over and over, upside down and inside out, backwards and forwards, round and round, until we get so weary and worn that we say we simply cannot stand it any longer!

We Need Only to Let Go

I know, I understand. I used to do that, too. Most of us have, I think, but I feel sure that nobody ever held on to them any tighter than I did. The whole world has been doing it, for ages. Perhaps that may have been just what the man with the withered hand had been doing, as far back as Jesus' time. He had evidently been holding to something so long in consciousness that his hand had actually grown stiff. Perhaps he had forgotten how to give. When we open our fingers, like this, we not only scatter our joyous beneficence but are also at the same moment in a position to receive. Or, it may be, since the man was by trade a mason, as the Bible commentators mention, and had been accustomed to earn his living through the use of his hands, he may have been just "paralyzed with fear," as the saying is, at the prospect of becoming a helpless mendicant. Of course we do not actually know what may have been the so-called cause of his trouble, but it is evident that Jesus discerned it at once. After rebuking the ecclesiastical bigotry of those standing by, who would willingly have trapped and condemned him on a doctrinal technicality, he said to the poor sufferer, "Stretch forth thy hand." He obeyed, and the law of God immediately took possession. It became "whole as the other." There is enough of this same healing Truth, of God, right here in this room, now, at this moment, to heal any difficulty which anyone present may feel that he possesses. But he must do his part.

The first essential is to get a right understanding of God. This is important, because everyone has either a limited or mistaken concept of Deity. There is no such thing as a really godless person. One may say that he is so, and fully believe that he is, but in the last analysis—is he? While it is true that he may refuse to believe in the generally accepted concept of God, as taught by the churches, yet is it not equally true that he does believe in the existence of some superhuman power greater than himself, over which he has no control? Perhaps he calls it "the Great First Cause," and if so we agree with him, for Christian Science declares God to be the one and only cause, the first, the last, the All-in-all. If questioned further, he will probably admit that he did not create himself, and in this we also concur, since God is the creator of all that really exists. He may also acknowledge that no human being is able to change the planets in their courses, interrupt the ceaseless ebb and flow of the ocean's tide, nor prevent the perpetual recurrence of springtime. Before such proofs of an intelligence which does govern and control all this, the so-called godless man must bow in silent acquiescence. He may call it "nature," and "law," but we call it God.

Mrs. Eddy's Definition of God

The Christian Science textbook (p. 587) defines God as "the great I AM; the all-knowing, all-seeing, all-acting, all-wise, all-loving, and eternal; Principle; Mind; Soul; Spirit; Life; Truth; Love; all substance; intelligence." To this God we turn rejoicingly, knowing that He is not far off, in some vague, distant heaven, shrouded in mystery and dogma, but here and near, tender, loving, merciful, compassionate, bestowing "beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness."

That which is called a Christian Science treatment is the law of God applied to any particular case. It releases, or "saves," us from all that is unlike God, thereby establishing our salvation, not deferred to some future time and to some so-called future world, but immediately, here and now. It includes a grateful acknowledgement of the good already received, a denial of whatever erroneous belief may be presenting itself for correction, and the establishing in consciousness of the great spiritual fact that since God and man are inseparable as Principle and idea, man can see only what God sees, and can know only what God knows, and that God's knowledge does not include such dark dream-shadows as sin, sickness, and death. It declares that there is but one consciousness, the God-consciousness, the Truth consciousness, the Christ-consciousness,—and that, in reality, is your consciousness, and mine; for there is no other. Into this purified consciousness nothing can enter "that defileth, or maketh a lie," and a Christian Science treatment proves, or "demonstrates" this by casting out any claim of error to presence and power. It is the coming of the Christ.

Everything Unlike God is Unreal

"But," someone may be thinking, "that does not sound very reasonable to me. We all know that we are living in the midst of trouble. We see it on every side. Do you just close your eyes to everything that is wrong, and deny that it exists?"

We deny that it exists as a reality, but we do not deny that it seems very real to frightened human sense, and so our work, our prayer, or process of salvation, our treatment, is to correct that frightened human sense through a better understanding of God, and of man's relationship to Him, to that Love which knows no evil. "Now, right there!" says our friend, the previous speaker, "you seem to be contradicting yourself. You say that God does not know evil?" No. "Nor sickness?" No. "Nor sin?" No, indeed. "Then how can He heal what He does not know?" How can He heal my rheumatism, for instance, if He does not know that I have any? I should not think that even God could do that!

I shall answer that question by a metaphor. Suppose the sun could speak. It might say, "What is darkness? I never saw any. What is night? I never saw night. I do not know anything about it." That is true. The sun never saw night, does not know anything about night, and yet it destroys it every twenty-four hours. Light never knows darkness, can never know darkness, for where light is, there is no darkness. The sun does not have to know about darkness in order to destroy it. It has only to shine. The instant the sun comes, darkness vanishes. Darkness is not a real entity. It is just the absence of light. It has no power of resistance. It cannot fight back, because it is nothing at any time but the absence of something else. The only thing it can ever do is just to disappear. So it is with sickness, sin, sorrow, poverty, fear, suffering,—that rheumatism, for instance. When the sunlight of Truth brought them upon them, Truth destroys them by reason of its own Allness, filling all space, and consequently leaving no place nor opportunity for evil of any sort.

As Spirit Created All His Creation Must Be Spiritual

"But," someone else may be thinking,—perhaps the one who is here for the first time,—"I wish I knew just how it works. You say that there is a law of God operating in our behalf, available at any time, if I will do my part. Now, just what is this law of God, and how does it work?" That is all fully explained in Science and Health; but to answer briefly here I will say that it "works" from the basis of a perfect God, a perfect man, and a perfect universe, as recorded in the Bible, in the first chapter of Genesis. This chapter, as you know, contains the account of creation, and from it as a premise we draw our conclusions as accurately as a mathematician demonstrates his problem in geometry. Since God made all that was made, and since God is Spirit, as the Bible declares, it follows that His creation must have been, and is, spiritual. All was finished. It was perfect and complete, and then God "rested" from His work.

Christian Science maintains that nothing has changed, nothing will ever change this forever fact of a perfect, complete, spiritual creation. It still remains just as it was "in the beginning." Later on, however, we are told that a mist "went up" "from the earth"—and then the trouble started. For a mist, as we all know, has a way of making everything look different. In a mist, one is confused. He does not see clearly any more. If any of our English friends are among the present, let them relate many the amusing stories of the old things which often happen during a proverbial London fog; how even the most ordinary and familiar objects sometimes assume such new and distorted shapes that one has been known to lose himself almost at his very door. If, at this moment, one of these dense fogs should settle over this room, the same thing would happen. The room would seem filled with confused outlines where the furniture had been, and we might, gradually, lose sight even of each other. After a while, we will say, the fog, or mist, lifts, and drifts away. Here we would all be, absolutely untouched, just as we were before. The fog had changed nothing. It had just the accurate illusion, for the time being, that was all. Sin, disease, and death do not change man, any more than the fog, or mist, changes the furniture. A Christian Science treatment only disperses the misconception of man by demonstrating his untouched perfection. It reveals him as he really is, not as he seems to be.

The Real Man, the Only Man Is Real

Of course at this point a clear distinction must be made between man, in God's image and likeness, and the poor, suffering race of Adam. The poor Science does not claim perfection for anything mortal or material. Far from it. It only says that where false material sense sees its own mistaken views of man, true consciousness, God-governed, sees the beauty and harmony and wholeness and completeness of the real, spiritual man. This does not mean, however, that there are two kinds of men. No. Just one, the one God made. Just one table, both before the fog and after it. Not two tables here at all. Never two tables. Just this one table and our misconception of it. No matter how thick the mist may have been, or how long it may have lasted; there has never been but one table. We just failed to see it clearly. That was all.

There was once a man who lay in the "mist" for thirty-eight years, waiting to be healed. It was at the Pool of Bethesda, a very long time ago. One happy day, Jesus, our dear, loving Master, came that way, and stopped to question him. The man explained that he could not move by himself, and there was no one to carry him into the pool, that he might be healed. Jesus spent no time in arguing. He quickly saw what was wrong. "Rise," he said, "take up thy bed, and walk." And it was done.

Perhaps in this instance, the mist may have been the man's belief in the power of the water in the pool to make him well, just as some today believe in the curative properties of certain material remedies. Perhaps he was just enveloped in a cloud of self-pity, because of his inability to reach the pool by himself. Or perhaps, a certain bitterness was rankling in his heart because no one seemed to make any effort to assist him. But Truth does not compel us to wait for somebody, somewhere, to do something before we can be healed. That is not God's way. The exact nature of the mist, we do not know, but the pure, spiritual vision of the Master saw through it an instant. There was not even any period of so-called convalescence. Did you ever think of that? No waiting for weak and unused muscles to regain their strength. The mist had so completely vanished that not even the memory of it remained. Although for thirty and eight years he had believed that he could not move, he was able, at the Christ-command, not only to rise, but to pick up his bed, and walk away with it! Are we not glad and thankful that this same law of God exists today!

God's Law Has Behind It Omnipotence

The dictionaries define "law" as "a rule of action made by a power capable of enforcing it." Law, then, is not law at all, unless there is power back of it. For instance, suppose some children playing on the sidewalk should decide among themselves that anyone passing by who might happen to step on a crack in the pavement would have to pay them a penny. Would that be law? Of course not. They might ask for their penny and some good-natured pedestrian might toss them one, in remembrance of his own boyhood days, but could they compel him to do so? But how about the traffic policeman? There he stands, in the midst of what seems to be a hopeless tangle of vehicles, and gives his orders. And do the drivers obey him? They certainly do! He controls the situation, not by reason of any power resident in himself, but because he represents the majesty of the law. Disobedience to that white-gloved hand, as it goes up or down, may lead to most unpleasant consequences, and they all know it.

In like manner does a Christian Science treatment operate. It speaks with authority, for back of it is the whole of omnipotence. This treatment, this saving law of God, specifically applied, carries with it its own irresistible impulsion. The trouble is that mortals sometimes believe something to be law which is not law at all, but merely a man-made and a man-projected theory. Still, if one believes in a false law, he may suffer from its effects just as much as if it really were a law, not realizing that he has a right to rebel against it. To return a moment to our illustration: if the children playing on the sidewalk should happen to find someone perhaps newly arrived in our country, who could not yet speak our language, and so did not understand what was going on, they might extort from him the coveted penny. But he would be making his way through his own ignorance. So it is with us, sometimes. We obey a false law, not by reason of any power inherent in the law itself, but because we do not know any better.

The Mistake Called Heredity

Oh, those pennies which we pay, day after day, and year after year, under the mistaken conviction that we must! Thousands, millions, are tolling along life's road today, bearing burdens more crushing than any ever laid upon the shoulders of a helpless people by a relentless Pharaoh. To cite just one example—and we all know of many others. There is a so-called law named "heredity," claiming that certain characteristics (usually undesirable ones), may be transmitted from one generation to another. Most of the world accepts this as law, and yet there ever anything more cruel and unjust, that a little child should be compelled to suffer for another's sin or mistake? It is inhuman and repellent, and yet the best are usually the first to fasten about his neck this yoke of bondage.

Christian Science challenges all such conclusions. It says (Science and Health, p. 227), "Citizens of the world, accept the 'glorious liberty of the children of God,' and be free! This is your divine right." Because someone, somewhere, thirty or sixty or a hundred years ago was addicted to drink, or was a business failure, or had a bad temper or a poor digestion, do we have to have them, too? No. God's law is a law of Love, and of justice. It says that mortals can pay no penalty except for their own wrongdoings, and that even that penalty ceases as soon as the sin ceases. It says that there can be no dangerous inheritances, since God is the Father and Mother of all. It says that the real man is never overcome by fear, overwhelmed by impending disaster. He never was in bondage to any unrighteous condition. He never had a handicap, physical or mental. In true consciousness, your consciousness, there is never any belief of weakness, pain, deformity, abnormality. True consciousness admits no insurmountable obstacle, no irreparable loss, no unforgivable wrong, no implacable hatred, no unconquerable sin, no incurable disease.

Why Our Prayers Are Sometimes Unanswered

Perhaps some have come here tonight who have been struggling with a problem which is not physical, but financial. And it may be that the general situation does not seem to be responding as it should, considering how long and how earnestly the prayer to God for freedom has been carried on. It may be that someone is discouraged. He feels that no matter how hard he tries, nothing seems to move. Perhaps he is thinking, "I wonder if I shall find out tonight what is the matter?" Perhaps. May I help you to analyze the way you are handling this seemingly stubborn difficulty, your treatment, your prayer—for they both mean the same thing. It sometimes happens that in one's mental work on a claim of this kind, he, all unconsciously, may have been including in that prayer the definite way in which he would like to see it answered. In his natural eagerness to see it "work out," he may have forgotten, just for the moment, that prayer which outlines its answer is not prayer at all, as Christian Science understands it. It may be that he has practically been saying, "It does look so right for me to have this! Dear God, won't you help me to get it?"

How do we always know what is best for us? Misguided human sense is so easily deceived! A chair may look like something quite different during the mist. Perhaps many of us can recall some time in our past experience when we were asking for something which, at the moment, looked so very fair and pleasant, so obviously right for us to have, that we could not understand why God, in His great wisdom, did not give it to us. But God, in His Great wisdom, did not. For some time after that we possibly went about in quite a rebellious and unhappy state of mind, because, for some unexplained reason, our prayers had not been answered.

Someone once wrote of mortal man, "So weak is he, so ignorant and blind, that did not God sometimes withhold petitions which we ask, we should be ruined at our own request!" God will not let us be ruined at our own request. He loves us too much for that.

Leave It All to God

We cannot force a demonstration. God's law works easily, quietly, naturally. It is like the so-called law of nature, in accord with which, without effort, the ice-bound brook melts its fetters and ripples onward toward the sea, leafless boughs hang out fresh garlands of loveliness, fruits mature, golden grains ripen. How it rests one to remember this! No more sense of hurry, worry, and impatience, no nervous strain and tension. We are now convinced that if this thing for which we long is really in accord with what is best for all concerned,—not just for us,—and if it is in accord with God's law, and is right for us to have, we can safely trust Him to give it to us. In fact, there is no power on earth to keep it back. All we now need to do is to step aside, with our preconceived personal opinions, and "let" God's will be done in our behalf, instead of getting all tired out trying to "make" it be done. It will be done when we have ceased listening to our own frightened heartbeats to hear the soft flutter of angelic wings, bringing God's answer to His child.

It has been the experience of many Christian Scientists that some of the very best gifts which divine Love has ever sent to them have come without long and strenuous effort on their part. In fact, usually without any conscious effort at all. Mrs. Eddy once wrote (Science and Health, p. 4), "What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds." When a Christian Scientist is busy living this prayer, by helping others, and by trying each day to be more loving and pure and consecrated and selfless, some very interesting things often happen, some unexpected and unprecedented things in connection with his own personal affairs, and he often finds that his own problem has solved itself when—so to speak—he was not looking! In fact, so quietly and naturally did the answer come, that he hardly knew it was there at all until he saw it shining out in his experience, a thing of joy and beauty.

Keep on Singing, and Trusting God

God is so good! What is it which ever keeps any of us from demonstrating more of this goodness in our own individual experience? It is our failure to lift our heads above the mist, and remember who we are—the man who has dominion over all things. No matter how hopeless any outward situation may seem to be, keep on singing your songs in the night, and trusting God. Never admit defeat. Never admit failure. There are no failures in God's universe. You are not a failure, nor have been a failure, nor are going to be a failure. That is not the truth about you. You are the child of God, free to walk the heavenly way, unhampered—and unafraid.

Market reports may fill humanity with grief, business may disintegrate, human enterprises fail, established precedents come to naught, thrones totter, governments change hands overnight, but the true Christian Scientist is at peace. For he knows that

"Behind the dim unknown,
Standeth God within the shadow,

Conflicting interests may rage between men and nations, and threaten to engulf the world once more into darkness and despair, but above "the tumult and the shouting" the light of Truth, like some clear star, shines on—and on.

Joy Cometh in the Morning

Just one more word. Do you remember how the disciples once rowed all night, but "the wind was contrary," and they did not get anywhere? And how their little boat kept tossing, tossing on the waves, and he was not there, and they did not know where he was, and everything seemed to be going wrong? Perhaps that describes the way some of us have felt during this past year, when we rowed and rowed, and could not seem to make any progress. There was always that "contrary wind," and the harder we tried, the more it seemed to blow us back. But, listen! "In the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea." "The fourth watch." Do you know what time that was? "The fourth watch" was the hour just before dawn, the proverbial "darkest hour." When the night was darkest, and their hope almost gone, the dear Christ came.

Truth is still with us, to give us strength and courage to keep on, and to bring us safely into the haven where we would be. Awake to reality! It is all here, every blessing from the hand of infinite Love,—happiness, success, abundance, completeness, freedom, health, home, heaven, every good and perfect gift,—all ours. All here. Now. Just waiting. We have only to see it.

"Lark no heaven-dropping manna, Lord,
No special dispensation from the skies;
Already wonders compass me around,
Already heaven all about me lies.
Open my eyes!"

PROFESSOR ANDREWS AGAIN SPEAKS ON WORLD AFFAIRS

Professor Andrews of Arlington again spoke briefly to the Men's Class of the Baptist Church meeting at noon last Sunday. In his address he emphasized (1) that the Ethiopian struggle was by no means the main issue in the world now in Europe. No matter what ambition Italy and Mussolini may be cherishing; (2) that the center of affairs so far as the West is concerned, is still Central Europe and that the importance of the change in the Presidency of Czechoslovakia must not be overlooked. That an extremely able president succeeds is vitally important. In Bones, who is quite capable of controlling the situation and keeping the lineup of democracy and of peace against Hitler aggression, Masaryk has a worthy successor, and Americans may well breathe easy. Dr. Andrews also (3) emphasized the need that Americans should realize as the British have done, that magnificent isolation is no more possible for America than for Great Britain. He stressed the great vote by which the people of Great Britain declared, a great majority of them, from all parties in favor of sanctions of the League and of law and order. He pointed out that the British had learned the truth that Americans must learn, that Right must be supported and that people must study and learn what is the Right in order to stand by it.

Naturally, Professor Andrews called attention to the Institute of World Affairs at Ferry Beach (of which he is Dean).

ITALIAN LETTER GET POWERFUL RESPONSE

will be better able to comprehend what is set forth.

Have you ever heard any Italian utter that the United States should be Fascist? Has Mussolini sent any one to the United States to preach or disseminate literature pertaining to Fascism? Has any Italian attempted, by speech or action, to overthrow our Constitution and replace it with Fascism? These questions can honestly and instantly be answered with an emphatic "NO."

How do you maintain that we are propagating for Italy to justify her war of conquest?

No, my dear Mr. Grano, we are not taking Mussolini's side because we think he is right. WE WANT TO SEE JUSTICE PREVAIL—that is the reason.

If, in your minds, justice is trod upon, we shall raise our voices to the high heavens, and be heard—whether to vindicate Italy or any other nation. You will find we play fair, and our tones ring true.

Let us examine your question: "Would our most well-known Italian-Americans be so fervent to form such a league, were it not Italy that was involved in the East African imbroglio?" What a simple, childish question! Let me ask one:

Would our well-known French-, Anglo-, Swedish-, or any other Americans, be so fervent to form such a league, were it not that their country was involved in the East African imbroglio? Of course they would.

People of foreign parentage always retain loyalty for their country. The Italians, like every other nationality, have a warm spot in their hearts for the mother country. Because they live in the United States does not indicate they are to disavow Italy or her actions. Naturally, they want to see Italy treated upon even terms.

We in America are not concerned with whether Italy is right or wrong in her colonial demonstrations. THAT'S MUSSOLINI'S BUSINESS. We don't care whether any nation that sought supremacy was justified in plundering and murdering brutally. The news might make good reading matter; otherwise it is of no import to us: it is none of our business.

We Italian-Americans are faithful and shall be ever faithful to the American Constitution. Like hundreds of thousands of people of other nationalities, we believe that the President's Neutrality is unfair. We believe that the present "neutrality" is absolutely not what the word "neutral" implies. Therefore, we shall plead at the top of our voices—not for Fascism, but for justice.

My dear Mr. Grano, besides being a disgrace to the Italian race, you have attacked unfairly a man of high standing—Atty. Michael Fredo.

His speech over WHDH, entitled "Mussolini and the Italian State" was a noble and enlightening treatise on Mussolini—his accomplishments and his aspirations. Your attack was completely unjustifiable.

Let us listen to the war news; let us weigh both sides of any issue; let us be just. Then—LET US MIND OUR OWN BUSINESS.

PAUL P. RICCARDI.

HOCKEY TEAM RETAINS 2ND POSITION IN LEAGUE

The high school hockey team retained second position in the Greater Boston league standing last Saturday afternoon at the Garden by defeating Rindge Tech of Cambridge in easy fashion by a four to one score. The local sextet stepped right out in front, scoring two goals in the first four minutes from the sticks of Joe Flores and Bob Mee. The latter scored again in the second period with a long shot from the blue line and Johnny Chipman closed the last session with a tally. Rindge scored its lone marker in the second period, and never seriously threatened after that. Playing for Arlington were: Chipman (O'Keefe, Teele), lw: Preston (Flores, Duffey), c: Owen (Mee), rw: Lane (Sakoiya), ld: O'Reilly, rd: Dutton (Leavitt), g.

Hockey Note:—A kid named Herb Buttrick is playing goal for Newton high. Twenty-five years ago Herb Buttrick was playing goal for Arlington High School.

Club Activities

WOMAN'S CLUB

Arlington Woman's Club guest night promises to be the most entertaining feature of this season's activities.

Alton Hall Blackington returns to Arlington in response to the many requests to present his new Southwestern illustrated lecture, "Turquoise Trails to New Mexico," in the most colorful and pretentious program that Mr. Blackington has ever produced. Once again, he finds and photographs the unusual from this dreamland of golden sunsets and presents it in a striking and spectacular fashion.

The president, Mrs. Robert Parmenter, will preside at Guest Night meeting on January 16 at 8 o'clock in Robbins Memorial Town Hall. After the meeting and entertainment a reception will be held.

The Selectmen and their wives are invited guests. Mrs. John H. Kimball, First Vice President of the M. S. F. W. C., will be guest of honor.

Mrs. Fred S. Douglas has charge of refreshments which will be served in the corridors, after which an orchestra will furnish music for dancing. Mrs. Russell T. Hamlet, assisted by Mrs. George W. Bowly, Mrs. Howard Ensor, Mrs. Carl G. Fowler, Mrs. Archibald Loveys, Mrs. Clifford D. Strout will be the ushers.

Members desiring to obtain tickets for guest night may do so on January 14 between 1 p. m. and 6 p. m. from Mrs. James Kidder, who will be at the Shop Unique, 651 Massachusetts avenue, or before Jan. 14 by sending a stamped envelope to Mrs. James Kidder, 215 Crosby street, Arlington. Music will be by Heffernan's orchestra.

Thursday, January 2nd, occurred the first meeting of the Arlington Woman's Club in 1936, and Cornelia Stratton Parker was a tremendous hit as the speaker. Members and visitors were greeted on entering the hall by Mrs. J. Herbert Mead, president of the club, 1925-27.

The meeting was in charge of the press and legislative committees and after the business of the afternoon, the president, Mrs. Robert B. Parmenter, introduced the chairman on legislation

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Heights Study Club

The Arlington Heights Study Club will hold their next meeting on Tuesday, January 14th at 1:45 p. m. at the home of Mrs. J. Herbert Mead, 206 Appleton street. The hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. J. Alphonse Gariepy and Mrs. George T. Standbridge.

R. D. Lend-a-Hand

The R. D. Lend-a-Hand club will hold a tea at the home of Mrs. A. W. Wunderly, 9 Lincoln street, on Wednesday, January 15, from 3 to 5 in the afternoon. The club, as the name suggests, has been for a number of years, doing splendid work in lending a hand wherever it was most needed.

Garden Club

Members of the Garden Club provided an afternoon of unusual interest at the club's meeting Wednesday. The president, Mrs. Ralph B. Lancaster, wished everyone a very Happy New Year and called attention to the attractive silver and white decorations on the tea table and the table by the fireplace. She then delivered an invitation to the Arlington club from the Belmont Garden Club to attend their meeting on January 21 at 7:30 p. m. in the Unitarian Parish House to hear Donald Wyman speak on "Color in the Garden". Members having cars that can take guests and members desiring to go as guests should call Mrs. Lancaster, Arlington 2696-J. Mrs. Lancaster urged members to enter the exhibit for individuals in the Boston Flower Show, saying that the entries must be in by February 17.

Mrs. Albert J. Hanson was appointed chairman of the nominating committee, with Mrs. Charles Atwood and Mrs. Edward A. Davenport, 2d, as the other two members.

Miss Alice M. Fischer is the new horticultural chairman, who will represent the club at lectures at Horticultural Hall and will aid in carrying out Federation projects.

Miss Lancaster, Mrs. Proudfoot and Miss Fischer gave reports of a course of Garden Club Federation lectures which they had attended. Mrs. Pitre introduced Mrs. Frederick H. Andres by reading three delightful quotations. Mrs. Andres reviewed twenty-six garden books from the Robbins Library, stressing the variety of subject matter to be found there. Starting with books on the making of a perfect lawn as the proper setting for any garden, she mentioned other books which dealt with specialized subjects, such as roses, gladioli, sweet peas, cacti, bulbs, herbs, annuals and water gardens. She suggested books on the arrangements of flowers throughout the year, with a chapter on vases as a warning to those who like to give vases to friends, and books on adventures in dish gardens, gardens in glass, and house plants for those living in small apartments.

Mrs. Pitre announced that the annual meeting in April would be on Tuesday, April 7, and would be held in Robbins Memorial Town Hall. Dr. James A. G. Davey of the Davey Tree Experts will talk and the meeting will be open to the public.

Miss Esther M. Wyman's talk on Foundation Planting was practical and interesting. She urged studying the house from the front and from the approaching street view, taking pictures of it and drawing plans for accuracy of ideas, before doing any planting. Landscape planning should tie the house to the ground, emphasize the important parts of the house, and conceal the bad features. Plants should be chosen to give a harmonious, restful effect and not too many kinds should be used in one planting.

A dainty and delicious tea of sandwiches, cakes and nuts was served by Mrs. Clifford Strout, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Linton, Mrs. George H. MacGillivray, Mrs. Charles H. Stewart, Mrs. Frank G. Volpe and Mrs. George M. Whitney.

THE LAST SHALL BE FIRST -- TO PAY

The Federal Debt stands today at thirty billion dollars (however much that is) and may pass the thirty-four billion dollar mark before the end of June. Who is going to pay this colossal sum, we ask? The answer may be found in the records. The man who makes less than five thousand dollars a year is going to pay the debt. He is the only one who has the money.

According to figures recently published, in 1934 individuals with incomes under $5,000, fellows like we and thee, made a total of seven billion five hundred million dollars. Those with incomes between $5,000 and $25,000 made slightly more than half that amount, and the combined incomes of all the big fellows was only $1,500,000,000.

In that same year Uncle Sam took in direct income taxes nearly a third of the earnings of the men making $25,000 a year and up, while the percentage taken from the mass of the people was practically infinitesimal (about one-two-hundred-and-thirtieth). The late Henry T. Rainey expressed this as the ideal tax philosophy, "To get the most feathers with the least squawking of the goose."

And that, would be the ideal tax philosophy, if it would work. The big income men can do only mild squawking, because there are so relatively few of them. The trouble is that they never have been able to pay the bills, and they never will. Even if it were possible to take one hundred percent from them without destroying the earning power of practically everyone else, the amount realized would be far short of the national budget.

Thus, in the final reckoning it will be the laborer, the artisan, the doctor, the lawyer, the teacher, the office worker and, we regret to say, the editor who will pay the bills, because they are the only ones who make enough money. They make $7,500,000,000 a year, which is much more than all other classes combined.

Fifty Years Ago This Week

The south wind and heavy rains of Monday and Tuesday soon cleared Spy Pond of the last vestige of ice. The ice-men wept with the rains.

The new chapel at Arlington Heights is viewed with pleasure and pride by all interested, and with the best of good reasons.

Soon the question will be, who shall we have for candidates for the several town offices? The heavy town expenses of the past year should develop a lively campaign. The taxpayers are wrathy.

A joint convention of the School Committee and Selectmen will be held Saturday evening to fill the vacancy in the former board, caused by the resignation of Mr. Chas. E. Goodwin, who was first chosen in 1869.

IN 1911

Twenty-Five Years Ago This Week

Because of no ice on account of the annual January thaw the members of the High School hockey team, with the exception of goaltender Buttrick were given a four-mile cross-country run by Coach Robert Clifford Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Philip N. Nazro has been appointed manager of the Raymond Whitcomb office in Philadelphia. Mr. Nazro has been in Philadelphia for a month, and his family joined him this week.

We learn that the new street south of Gray street, which has been temporarily called "Francis Avenue", is becoming generally known as "Norfolk Road".

George Hill of Pleasant street had an unusual visitor last week. A young deer becoming frightened, dashed into Mr. Hill's greenhouse and was captured by some gardeners. After his cuts were attended to, Mr. Hill released the deer and he disappeared again toward the Heights.

As yet the new automobile combination chemical and hose wagon has not been purchased by the committee appointed at the last town meeting with full power to do so. Why not?

New officers of Francis Gould Relief Corps:—President, Mrs. Nellie M. Farmer; Sr. V. P., Mrs. Catherine Finlay; Jr. V. P., Mrs. Minnie O. Eames; Treasurer, Mrs. Clara J. The Musical Club held its "guest night" on Thursday evening, December 29th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bailey, Jr., of Pleasant street. The programme was given by Mesdames Bailey, Vereaux, Reed and Scully, Miss Walcott, Miss Taft, and Miss Yerrinton.

We don't know how it may be in other places, but the Arlington telephone exchange leaves much to be desired. It takes time and no little patience in calling and getting desired connections.

We have said so many nice things about the dancing parties that have been held under the auspices of "The Trio" (Messrs. Schnetzer, Parsons and Buntson) that there does not seem to be much more to say than "ditto-ditto". . . . Mrs. Clarence Gale and Mrs. Wm. C. Drouet were the matrons of this New Year's Eve dance.

Those who took part in the First Baptist Sunday School holiday festival are as follows: Persis Dolloff, Leon Ogilvie, Genevieve Chase, Eleanor Bateman, Louise Barker, Esther Gannett, Olive Moore, Huldah Kemper, Mrs. Harry Bacon and baby, Eleanor Bacon, Florence Worthington, Joseph Burr, Miss Lillian Richardson, Miss Alice Burr, Winthrop Wood, Mary Plaised, Morrill Ring, Lucy Hainsworth, Selma Freeman, Ruth Lave, Roy Goodwin, Walter Alson, Chorus: Kenneth and Malcolm Reed, Arthur and Harold Clare, Robert White, Morrill Ring, Austin Bennett, Winthrop Wood, Fred Harris, and Arthur Landers, soloist.

At a meeting of the trustees of Arlington Hospital held Monday evening, January 2nd, the "Building Committee" made its final report. The following is a list of members of the corporation: Trustees—President, Geo. Y. Wellington; treasurer, Wm. N. Winn; clerk, Omar W. Whittemore; Charles A. Dennett, Edwin S. Farmer, Robt. W. Pond, Wm. H. H. Tuttle.

Physicians Board—Edward D. Hooker, M. D.; Charles A. Keegan, M. D.; David T. Percy, M. D.; Edwin P. Stickney, M. D.; Julia Tolman, M. D.

Other Members—Charles W. Allen, Geo. G. Allen, James A. Bailey, Jr., John A. Bishop, Frank Bott, Louis B. Carr, Edward S. Crockett, J. Howell Crosby, John H. Hardy, Rodney T. Hardy, Henry W. Hayes, Philip A. Hendrick, Joseph A. Holmes, Robert J. Kelly, Geo. A. Kimball, John Lyons, Francis L. Maguire, Wm. A. Muller, Frank W. Noyes, Horatio A. Phinney, Willard G. Rolfe, Waterman A. Taft and Daniel Wyman.

Here and There

From time to time we have had occasion to point out the fact that the policeman in these days is a full-fledged member of that fast disappearing guild, "The Jack of All Trades." Now another example of that fact comes to our attention.

Last week a gentleman on Mt. Vernon street called police headquarters at about one in the morning and said that the radiator in his bedroom had burst and water was two inches deep on his floor. Two officers were immediately dispatched, and they arrested the escaping stream.

On page one of this issue we request pictures of candidates running for local office. Now let's see how many candidates will dare to comply with the request.

The writer of this column happens to be directing "The Dead of Night", a mystery play being given in the vestry of the Orthodox Congregational Church this and tomorrow evenings. He is, therefore, in a position to pass along a rumor concerning said show.

The play is clean as a whistle. There is no drinking on the stage of off; there is not even any smoking for that matter; and the demon sex fails completely to rear its ugly head. Nevertheless, it is not the best thing in the world for small children to see. We suggest, therefore, that the youngsters be left at home in bed, where they belong.

Out of the four items that appear in the "Fifty Years Ago this Week" column, three of them might have been written for the current issue of the Advocate. The most startling example of the repetition of history is the last item which reads: "A joint convention of the School Committee and Selectmen will be held Saturday evening to fill the vacancy in the former board, caused by the resignation of Mr. Chas. E. Goodwin, who was first chosen in 1869."

We must remember that word "convention". We get sick of writing "meeting" all the time.

But the point is that the Selectmen called a joint convention with the school committee for Monday night of this week to fill a vacancy in the latter board, caused by the resignation of Prof. Clair E. Turner.

Victory! We learn that the deadlock on the successor to Professor Turner was broken Monday night. Harold A. Cahalin, Boston expert on municipal finance and life-long resident of Arlington, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The police department seems to be having some difficulty with the Registry of Motor Vehicles. Several times since the first of the year names corresponding to certain registration numbers have been desired, and the police have been informed that such information would not be available until after February 10, which seems to us a ridiculous state of affairs. What are those numbers, anyway—just ornaments?

The Edison Company's Samuel T. MacQuarrie, who spoke to the Arlington Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, is given by the Boston Herald as authority for the statement that President Roosevelt is losing popularity in this section of the country, at least.

The assistant general manager said that the company's normal "load" registered by electric consumption charts fell off more than 1000 watts during the hour that the President was on the air last Friday night. Formerly there was an increase of 15,000 to 20,000 kilowatt hours over the normal load when the Presdent was speaking to the public. The Louis-Baer fight still holds the Boston record for the greatest increase in the peak load, Mr. MacQuarrie says.

The first regular issue of the Arlington Advocate was published January 6, 1872, which made us sixty-four years old on Monday, and on that date the Boston Traveler carried a very fine story on the anniversary, pointing out that the paper has been in the same family all this time.

It often happens that the fellow who has reached a birthday anniversary is about the only one around who does not realize the fact. An Advocate man called a Boston supply house Tuesday morning on something or other and was congratulated on his birthday. He replied indignantly that he was not sixty-four years old, or anything near it.

According to a bill board in the Center, "There's a new Hoover for only $49.75", which seems to be a lot cheaper than an old Roosevelt for $20,000,000,000.

In an editorial in the Sunday Post, there was a discussion of the possibility of golf for the Olympics and it included the writer's conception of the perfect Massachusetts golfer. "He'd swing like John Bernardi, have the power of Johnny Thoren, putt like Dave Hackney, have the competitive spirit of MacAndrew, have the coolness of Bobby Crowley, play irons like Roland Hancock and be a good fellow like Billy Duffy."

Johnny Thoren is an Arlington lad and is the professional at Woburn. It is rumored that he may transfer his talents to the Winchester Country Club next season. Johnny not only has great power in his swing, but he has been a powerful ally to scores of duffers who became duffers no longer under his tutelage.

SOPHISTICATED ONLOOKER.

NEWS BRIEFS

"The wholesale murder" which resulted from the bombing of an Egyptian Red Cross unit and the Swedish mission in Ethiopia by the Italians, have so aroused deep feeling in London as to be an aid in carrying out oil sanctions against Italy.

President Roosevelt's radio speech Friday evening over a nation-wide hook-up, pleases or disgusts according to the point of view. His neutrality bill is looked upon as "hopeful" by London.

The A. A. A. is killed by the Supreme Court on the grounds that it is an invasion of States Rights.

Postmaster Farley's annual report shows a surplus of about $5,000,000 for the Post Office Department during the last fiscal year. But $70,000,000 was deducted as expenses not directly belonging to the Post Office. Instead of a surplus, then, we find a deficit of around $65,000,000.

Mexico sets us an excellent example. Makes drastic cuts in the budget. "Economy" will be the watch-word for the coming year. Reforms will be instituted to conserve federal funds, waste and political corruption eliminated!

Secretary Daniel C. Roper finds improvement in business remarkable in its widespread and predicts a steady rise for 1936.

The Governor is silent to the charge recently made by Robert T. Bushnell that he (Curley) intends to follow in the footsteps of the late Senator Long in Louisiana, through control of the Supreme Court. Bushnell has the respect of Massachusetts. His charge will be noted, we hope, by the Governor.

Col. Frank Knox, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, on Saturday took the occasion of criticizing President Roosevelt's annual message to enumerate his own seven-point program, as follows:

- "1. Immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenses.
- "2. A sound currency to be maintained at all hazards.
- "3. Maintenance of the national credit by a federal budget annually balanced.
- "4. Unemployment and old-age insurance under state laws.
- "5. The removal of government from all fields of private enterprise.
- "6. Opposition to the unsound policy of restricting agricultural production.
- "7. Strict and impartial enforcement of the antitrust laws to prevent monopoly."

H. A. Potter, official "minute clerk" of the Supreme Court, has been named "press contact man." This is the first time in 146 years that such an appointment has been made.

From Llandaff, Wales, comes the statement that the Lindbergh family will return to us in the Spring. By that time the Hauptmann case will give place to political hub-bub.

Hauptmann will pay his debt to society January 17th—if and if.

Sanford Bates, director of the Bureau of Prisons, states in his annual report that the proportion of criminals sent to prison for liquor law violations increased in 1935 to a point where they were almost as large as in prohibition days. This may be a good sign: more violators are punished!

A model shoe factory costing $5,000,000, will be erected on a 10 square mile tract near Baltimore by the great Czechoslovakian firm of Bata. The firm has branches in 27 countries. Improved methods will enable union wage scale wages and will put shoes on the market below the present price! Bata learned his trade in the shoe factories at Lynn.

The Newspaper Boy of the Street

By M. JAMES COUGHLIN

Whether raining or snowing
Or hailing or blowing
Or freezing to twenty below,—
Just as sure as the dawning
Of every new morning
You'll see him wherever you go.

With voice never resting
And eyes ever questing
The faces of all he may meet,—
And legs that ne'er linger
When the beckoning finger
Of service calls forth from the street.

His clothes worn and faded
His kid features faded
And paled from the frost's vicious bite,—
But regardless of weather,—
In girde of leather
He's there on his stand day and night.

There he battles with life
Through weather and strife
Yet he dreams,—as he peddles his sheet.

For ambition is staking
This man in the making,—
This newspaper boy of the street.

Alert as a rabbit
With service his habit
His wages, your penny—or two
Obliging and humble
With never a grumble
He's proud to be working for you.

And he's serving us all
He's at our beck and call
Our friend,—like the cop on the beat,—
He's faithful and fervent
A true public servant
This newspaper boy of the street.
October 17, 1935.

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

The following marriage intentions were filed in the office of the town clerk this week: William Allen Oldham, 14 Palmer street, and Viola (Clements) Dailey, 18 Thobndike street, Arthur Herman Paul, West Somerville, and Dorothy Crane Martin, 20 Foster street. George Lloyd, Billerica, and Ruth Elizabeth Butler, 52 Hemlock street.

GOLDEN ADDITION

On Friday last, January 3, a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. James J. Golden, Jr. (Irene Doherty) of Webster street, at the Walnut Street Hospital, and it is reported that both mother and daughter are getting along splendidly. Mr. Golden is clerk to the Board of Selectmen and the Joint Board.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Annual Meeting and Banquet
For the first time in the history of Sachem Council, wives of scouts and other women friends of scouting will be present at the eleventh annual meeting and banquet of the council to be held Saturday, January 18th. Owing to unexpected developments, the meeting place has been changed to the Arlmont Country Club.

While the Scouters are having their business session in the afternoon the women will be enjoying an entertaining program put on by a committee headed by Mrs. Wm. Hart Nichols of Waltham, after which they will attend the banquet.

The committee in charge of the Annual Meeting, Dr. Walter T. Garfield of Belmont, chairman, has secured as speaker, the Hon. Arthur T. Lyman, state commissioner of correction.

The business meeting will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At 6:30 the annual banquet will be held, during which the new officers will be introduced.

Troop 8, Boy Scouts, of the Orthodox Congregational Church, spent last week-end at Camp Oak where they not only enjoyed the fun of a wet week-end at camp but also accomplished a great deal in the line of Advancement.

Upon arrival at camp the boys discovered that Troop 22 of Lexington was engaged in a wild game of "Capture the Flag". Immediately Troop 22 was challenged to a game of "Touch Football". They accepted the challenge and an exciting game followed. Troop 22 won in the last minute of play, after using two complete teams against the Troop 8 "Wildcats".

Saturday night the boys from Troop 8 had an exciting game of "Jack Jack Blow Your Whistle". The game was followed by a "binge" on cider and doughnuts, supplied by Selectman Ernest W. Davis, father of one of the boys.

The boys returned home Sunday afternoon and all agreed that they had had a "swell" time.

At the regular monthly meeting of the executive board of Sachem Council, Inc., to be held Monday evening, January 13th, in the hearing room of Robbins Memorial Town Hall, Harley E. Erb, Assistant National Director of Camping, will speak on "camps and camping". This feature will be in addition to the usual routine business of the board.

Mr. Erb has had a large and wide experience in boy work. He is an Eagle scout, a former scoutmaster, holder of the Scoutmaster's Key, and has served in Virginia, his home state, and Tennessee, as scout commissioner, council president and scout executive. In 1932 he became assistant national director of inter-racial activities promoting the scout movement for the negro boy among scout councils in the South. Later he became deputy regional executive of region 5 and

JUNIOR HIGH WEST NOTES

The seventh grade is to see for the first time, this week, one of the series of the Yale University Chronicles of America, entitled "Columbus". As this grade will soon be taking up the subject of explorers in their history classes, the film is a very timely one.

The school welcomes Mr. William Sullivan, who entered last Thursday as a teacher of mathematics in place of Mr. Allen Lester.

On account of the automobile accident in which her mother was badly hurt recently, Miss Hilda Frost, teacher of drawing, has not been at school for several days. Her place is being taken by Mrs. Olive Hanna.

Boys' basketball started this week, under the direction of Mr. Riordan. No boy may take up basketball unless he is passing in all subjects and satisfactory in effort and school-citizenship.
